

Founders' Agreement & Team Charter

1. Vision & Objective

Vision: To build a generation of engineers who can think, simulate, and solve beyond textbooks.

Objective: To transform ANSYS and SolidWorks learning into real skills, real projects, and real career outcomes. We bridge the gap where most students learn the software but few can apply it to solve real engineering problems.

2. Organizational Structure & Roles

Name	Designation	Primary Responsibilities
Aaroh Parth Asthana	Co-Founder	Strategic vision, long-term roadmapping, product development leadership, high-level client relations.
Harshit Kulshrestha	Co-Founder	Operational execution, technical strategy, workflow optimization, training methodology.
Ananya Mishra	Operations & Finance Manager	Financial oversight, social media/branding, administrative compliance, and quality control.
Osho Ayush	Technical Project Associate	Client acquisition, technical delivery (simulation & design), project support.
Simran Singh	Technical Project Associate	Client acquisition, technical delivery (simulation & design), project support.

3. Dispute Resolution Protocol

To ensure organizational stability, the team commits to the following hierarchy for conflict resolution:

- Democratic Resolution (Voting): All decisions shall first be put to a vote. A simple majority (at least 3 out of 5 members) is required to pass a resolution.
- Operational Arbitration: If a tie occurs or no consensus is reached, the matter shall be referred to Ananya Mishra for an objective assessment and tie-breaking decision.
- Executive Resolution: If the conflict persists, the matter shall be escalated to the Co-Founders (Aaroh Parth Asthana & Harshit Kulshrestha), whose decision shall be binding.

All members agree that once a decision is made via this protocol, it is final, and all members shall support its implementation.

4. Commitment
